Noted Painter Calls County 'Garden Of Eden'

The countryside about Gettysburg was described recently by Charles Morris Young, of Radnor, world famous artist who started his lifetime career by painting Adams county landscapes, as "the most beautiful country in the world, a counterpart of the Garden of Eden" in an interview published recently by The Suburban and Wayne Times.

Under the byline of Jean Horton Berg, who writes a column of personal interviews with interesting and important residents of the Radnor section, the story traces Mr. Young's career from the days of his youth near Gettysburg when he started painting at the age of 12.

For nearly six years he worked by himself, without so much as knowing another artist, the story relates. "All I ever wanted to do was delineate the color and light of nature for the benefit of those who could not see it as I did," Mr. Young is quoted as saying. He studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia and taught at the School of Design in Philadelphia for two years before he had enough money to go to Europe where he studied at Colorossi's in Paris, specializing in landscapes and portraits.

Mr. Young describes himself as an "on the spot" painter. He does not use a camera as do many modern illustrators to catch an impression which he may expand in his studio at home. "The camera has neither brains nor a sense of humor," he says.

The story quotes highly complimentary estimates of Mr. Young's work by French and American art critics. "Landscapes of Italy, Holland and France as well as those of widely separated parts of our own country have been interpreted by Mr. Young. And he is still painting — his years of valuable experience contributing to a larger understanding and surer interpretation of his subject," the article continues.

Estimating the role of art in today's life, Mr. Young says emphatically that at this period of history when there is danger of civilization's dying from aesthetic starvation, art helps to stabilize civilization; and the man contributing to any of the arts is by way of being a philanthropist.

Mr. Young's paintings have recently come to the attention of many residents of this county since several landscapes of Adams county have been placed on display at the Adams County Free library on East High street. Mr. Young presented the paintings for display there and established a trust fund for their care.

Boy, 14, Home After 223 Days In Hospital Here

Edward Charles Fox, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Fox, Biglerville R. 2, will be home for his 15th birthday Friday after spending 223 days in the Warner hospital.

The youngster was discharged Saturday from the hospital where he was admitted last July 25 suffering first, second and third degree burns of his abdomen, chest, back, both arms and both legs.

He was admitted with his brother, 10-year-old Frederick Burnell Fox, shortly after the two boys were severely burned when a third boy threw kerosene on a fire the youngsters had built along a stream bank "to make it burn faster," Frederick Fox died about 24 hours after the blaze had seared him.

Surgeons at the Warner hospital said today that the Fox youngster had undergone the most extensive skin grafts of anyone ever treated at the local hospital. He was given blood plasma when he entered the hospital and additional blood, including transfusions of whole blood, have been given at frequent intervals since last July to help the youngster in his recovery.

While he was discharged and is spending some time at home, he still has a number of skin grafts to undergo, physicians said. Despite the grafts he will always have a number of large scars on his legs, the doctors said.

BULLETINS

Washington, March 19 (AP) — RFC Director C. Edward Rowe demanded today that Senate investigators withdraw their charges linking him to an influence ring with alleged White House contacts.

Director Walter L. Dunham had told the subcommittee on March 8 that Rowe urged him to resign his post under circumstances that would make Dunham "the goat" of charges the RFC had yielded to an influence ring in making government loans.

Korean Troops Swim Chilly Hongchon River In Pursuit Of Reds Fleeing To "Line"

More Than 500 See "King Of Kings" Film
Tokyo, March 19 (AP)—South Korean troops swam the chilly Hongchon river in central Korea today in pursuit of Communist forces pulling back toward the 38th Parallel.

The Republic of Korea (ROK) soldiers were spearheading the central front drive of the U. S. Eighth Army which has set up strong forces in a holding line only 17 miles south of the politically sensitive parallel. "There was no stopping those ROK troops," said a military spokesman. They swam the cold river rather than wait for boats to ferry them across in the northward drive.

Annihilate Battalion
The same ROK troops trapped and annihilated a Chinese Communist battalion Sunday.

The ROKs captured a battery of 75-mm. howitzers, several mortars and rifles, and large quantities of ammunition.

It was the first action of any size along the Korean front in 83 hours. U. S. jet pilots Monday killed or wounded 300 of 1,500 Reds concentrated in the village of Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

They also reported damaging a tank in the town west of Chunchon, once the central Chinese command headquarters south of the 38th Parallel and now apparently abandoned.

Repel Enemy Platoon

A U. S. armored patrol rolling north from Seoul threw back an enemy platoon that attacked it 20 miles south of the parallel on the western front.

On the eastern front, Allied patrols probing within a few miles of the 38th Parallel moved northward against Red small arms and mortar fire.

The army, breaking a three-day silence, announced "holding elements are 17 miles from the 38th Parallel at five points." It did not locate the points and said it would not. Holding elements presumably are capable of holding their ground against heavy attack.

The brief announcement said patrols were operating "miles north of the five points and in all other sectors." It did not say how many miles.

Famous Dividing Line
Parallel 38, which cuts across Korea about in the center, has been the arbitrary dividing line between Communist North and Republican South. (Continued on Page 2)

Miss Mickey asked that those planning to take advantage of the test bring the entire cooker with them.

To Discuss Spoilage
Miss Margaret Johnson, State College nutrition specialist will be present throughout the day to discuss with the housewives any matters they may have concerning spoilages to canned goods. No formal meetings will be held during the day, she added. Miss Johnson will be present and discuss directly with any housewife wishing the service, any problem in canning that the housewife may have.

In previous years the testing of the pressure cookers was held over a week-long period. This year, however, it will be possible to test the cookers only on the one day, April 6, Miss Mickey said.

Korean Troops

South Korea since the end of World War II.

North Koreans stabbed across the line June 25 and touched off the current fighting. United Nations forces pushed them back across the parallel.

Then the Allies were forced south of the line by overwhelming masses of Chinese Reds who came to the aid of the North Koreans.

Now, the U.N. was rolling northward once more, in search of withdrawing Chinese and Red North Korean forces.

Whether the U.N. would drive back across 38 was a knotty problem before the world's diplomats and military leaders.

The Chinese appeared to have given up their last main military base south of the parallel—Chuncheon, eight miles below the line in central Korea.

Two Adams county farmers are among 26 throughout the state who have started the second year of experiments comparing Landrace crossbred swine with purebreds.

Edgar Leer and A. B. C. Williams, both of York Springs R. D., are raising Landrace crossbreds in comparison with Poland China purebreds this spring, according to a report from State College. Both participated in similar experiments last year.

Under the program the farmers raise a litter of the crossbreds and a litter of purebreds under similar conditions, and then the animals are compared at the end of the season according to weight and development.

The experiments, being carried out in cooperation with scientists at the USDA research center at Beltsville, Md., are being held to determine whether the Landrace hog produces more and better meat quicker and cheaper than the standard purebreds, Berkshire, Chester White, Hampshire and Poland China.

ROSE BOWL UP TO INDIVIDUAL BIG TEN ACTION

Chicago, March 19 (AP)—The Big Ten will continue doing business in the Rose Bowl for the next three years, IF individual member schools don't veto yesterday's action by the conference athletic chiefs.

The faculty representatives, the policy-making group, and athletic directors voted to continue the post-season football classic with the Pacific Coast conference provided each league limits a school to one Pasadena appearance every two years. The P.C.C. had proposed a three-year extension to follow an expired five-year agreement.

In the five-year bowl series which ended last New Year's Day with a clean sweep by the Big Ten, the Pacific Coast conference had no limit on the number of times a team could compete, while the Big Ten had a once-every-three-years restriction.

"Rider" Is Attached
The Big Ten group also expressed willingness yesterday to continue the Bowl agreement on the once-every-three-years appearance limit. This apparently was a "rider" to keep an ace-in-the-hole in case the once-every-two-year-proposal is side-tracked.

Yesterday's action must be reviewed by the governing body of each institution within 60 days. Disapproval by even a single school will require another vote by the faculty representatives and athletic directors at the spring meeting at Evanston, Ill., May 25-26. However, a majority vote at Evanston will certify yesterday's recommendation on the Rose Bowl, but still to be specified is whether there will be a two or three year repeat limit.

Sentiment Divided
The catch in the whole thing is that a governing body at a school whose faculty representative is pro-Rose Bowl may turn thumbs down on renewal of the pact, no matter whether the renewal be a continuance of the past Big Ten policy or a two-year appearance agreement.

In that case, the post-season game could be voted out, since the sentiment in yesterday's balloting was reported to be 6 to 4 for renewal on both the basis of two and three year restriction on repeat appearances.

The Pacific Coast conference, regardless of its feelings, must wait until the May Big Ten meeting before acting finally on the West Coast phase of the Rose Bowl game.

York, state Junior College champions, will meet Binghamton, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Frackville Winner In VFW Tournament

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—The Frackville basketball team held title today to the Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars 1951 Basketball championship.

The Schuylkill county quintet downed Stroudsburg, 59-39, in the state finals here Saturday. The win gave Frackville the right to represent Pennsylvania in the VFW National tournament at Bozeman, Mont., starting March 28.

Training Camp Briefs

Clearwater, Fla., March 19 (AP) — An operation probably has cost Rookie Johnny Walz his chance of making the Philadelphia Phillies this season.

Walz, 20-year-old right handed pitcher up from the Phils farm club at Wilmington, Del., where he had an 8-4 record last season, underwent an emergency appendectomy at the Morton Plant hospital here yesterday.

The Phils returned here today to meet the St. Louis Cardinals who edged the National league champions at St. Petersburg yesterday, 1-0.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Philadelphia Athletics named Joe Coleman and Hank Wyse as his pitching choices for today's game against the Brooklyn Dodgers at Vero Beach.

The A's yesterday won the final game of their spring training schedule with the Washington Senators, 4-3. It gave the Mackmen a 3 to 2 edge over the Senators in the five games between the two teams. Four of the tilts were decided by one run.

Los Angeles, March 19 (AP) — Two reserve infielders, given a chance to win regular positions with the Pittsburgh Pirates, are showing some hitting power which is delighting Manager Billy Meyer.

Shortstop George Strickland and second baseman Jackie Merson both came through with homers in yesterday's exhibition games against Oakland and San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league. Strickland got four hits in seven trips. Merson batted an even .500 with four in eight.

San Diego, Calif., March 19 (AP) — Sam Ziskind has a sore arm again and he thinks it may be a break. A lucky break says the Cleveland Indians' southpaw because: "It was sore in 1948 and when it got better, I had more stuff than before."

Sam contributed nine wins to the Tribe's pennant victory that year after St. Louis sold him in June for $100,000. But he slumped the next two seasons and wound up with a one win-two loss record for 1949; 4-2 for 1950.

He has yet to appear in an exhibition game this season, but pitched during batting practice yesterday.

Los Angeles, March 19 (AP) — The inflammation in the right elbow of Allie Reynolds, New York Yankees' World Series pitching ace, is believed to be more serious than originally announced.

This was indicated when Manager Casey Stengel failed to include Reynolds name in listing hurlers for the next three days.

Miami, Fla., March 19 (AP) — Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodgers second baseman, is still bothered by a strained back muscle, and says his health is more important than playing exhibition games.

Robinson played three innings Saturday night against the New York Giants, but missed the Sunday game entirely.

Tampa, Fla., March 19 (AP) — He is hampered, but you still never saw an angrier guy than Boston's Ted Williams after he struck out twice in one inning yesterday.

Panning the Red Sox strong boy was one of the few pleasures that Cincinnati pitcher Eddie Evers got out of the exhibition at the Redleg training camp here—even though the Reds won 15-12.

Eraut lastly only one inning as the sockers clipped him for seven runs. Temperamental Teddy seemed to be the only batsman Eraut could do anything with in that seventh inning.

Williams, who complained of having a "lousy cold," did manage to poke a terrific blast over right centerfield fence for three runs, however.

VANDENBERG UNCHANGED

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 19 (AP)—Seriously ill Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg has shown no improvement in the last 24 hours, his physician, Dr. A. B. Smith, reported last night. The Michigan Republican, a foreign policy leader, will be 67 Thursday. He underwent a series of operations and suffered a relapse Feb. 26.

Parrots have no wishbones.

SWOYERSVILLE, BLOOMSBURG TO CLASH TONIGHT

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—The lineup of Class A regional finalists will be completed tonight as Swoyersville meets Bloomsburg in the race for the PIAA state basketball title.

One jump ahead of the other seven contenders are the Allentown Canaries of District 11 who have already secured a position in the Eastern finals on March 28.

Allentown ended 19-game winning streak of Rednor (District 1) Saturday night at Penn Palstra with a 50-43 triumph in the opening Eastern inter-district game. Farrell eliminated Somerset's District 5 representatives, 61-35, on the same night in Pittsburgh. Sharpville (District 10) took Clearfield (9) Friday night, 46-45, in overtime.

Once-beaten Chambersburg, the District 3 champion, draws the Bloomsburg-Swoyersville winner Wednesday night at the Hershey arena in the only Eastern semi-final.

The west offers two regional semi-finals on the same night. Sharpville of District 10 opposes the strong Westinghouse Bulldogs of District 8 (Pittsburgh) at the Pitt Pavilion. Farrell's Steelers, champions of District 7 (WPAL), are matched against Johnston's District 6 representatives at the War Memorial Arena in Johnstown.

Week-End Holiday

No playoff games will be played this coming week-end due to the Easter holidays. Regional finals are carded from March 28 with the state championship game being played March 31 at Penn Palstra in Philadelphia.

Swoyersville's sailors, defending eastern champions, are favored tonight, in their preliminary inter-district game with Bloomsburg's Panthers of District 2. The game will be played at Bucknell university in Lewisburg.

Swoyersville will enjoy a huge height advantage over the Panthers, who are making their first bid in inter-district competition. However, both teams will sport 14-game winning streaks and almost identical records. Swoyersville has won 20 of its 23 games while Bloomsburg has won the same number in 24 contests.

Bloomsburg has a well-balanced attack that led it to the Susquehanna league title and a District 4 playoff victory over Kulpmont's Keystone League champions, 60-46. Swoyersville won the Class B north title by thumping Wilkes-Barre township, 103-59, with its six-foot, five-inch center—Joe Holup—scoring a record 71 points.

The only other PIAA playoff tilt on tonight's schedule sends Southmont of District 6 against Fredonia of District 10 in the Class C western championship game. The same two teams met for the title last year with Fredonia coming out on top.

MT. JOY TILTS

MT. JOY TILTS
Mt. Joy of District 3 won the eastern title Saturday night by stopping Pringle of District 2 59-57. There is no state title in Class C. Class B action resumes tomorrow night with Kutztown's defending eastern champions from District 3 meeting Hellertown of District 11 and Clarks Summit of District 12 opposing McAdoo of District 2 in the east. The western semi-finals send unbeaten Cresson (6) against Avalon (7) and unbeaten Mercer (10) against Slippery Rock (9).

Milton Berle Signs 30-year Contract

New York, March 19 (AP)—Milton Berle has signed a 30-year contract with the National Broadcasting company.

The contract gives NBC first call on the 42-year-old comedian's services, either as actor, producer, writer or director, in both radio and television. It is subject to his present contract with the Texas company for next year.

The network announced yesterday that Berle had signed.

His attorney, Irwin W. Rosenberg, said later that the contract would run into "seven figures"—$1,000,000 and up—over the 30-year period.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 19 (AP)—Ben Morgan, who is doing a notably thorough job of publicizing the golden anniversary of minor league baseball, has analyzed the minor records made in 1950. . . . And it comes out like Frank Frisch's plaintive cry: "Them bases on balls."

Morgan finds that 36 of the 152 league 500-year records broken or tied were due to wildness of pitchers. . . . Maybe it is significant that the pitcher who really smashed the records for handing out walks—235 in one season—is named Andrew Pane of Pauls Valley (Okla.) in the Sooner State league. . . . The same circuit produced a game that should stand as an all-time record. Pauls Valley played ADA and walks, 18 walks, 30 hits and 39 runs.

HALF THE DISTANCE

It was at a scholastic sports gathering in New Hampshire and Dolly Callahan, veteran Concord high school coach, was spinning the yarn. . . . It was an extra-inning game in Laconia and a Concord boy slid into the plate, kicking the ball out of the catcher's hands for what looked like the winning run. . . . The umpire (a barber by trade) shouted: "Out." . . . Callahan charged off the bench screaming "What for?" and the ump, putting on his most scornful nickel-tip look, answered: "For unnecessary roughness." . . . Then Dolly really screamed: "Unnecessary roughness! Then why didn't you penalize him 15 yards?"

MONDAY MATINEE

Dispatch from Florida says Jimmy Demaret has quit the winter golfing tour and plans to play only in the Masters, Goodall, U. S. open and British open tournaments in the future. . . . Add advantages of playing in the Garden basketball tournaments: The Dayton U. players went to see "Guys and Dolls" the other night. Most New Yorkers can't get a ticket before next year. . . . Dick Walte, Columbia wrestling coach, gives Reddy Finney, Princeton's non-wrestling captain, credit for a successful season by Brad Glass, favorite to win the NCAA heavyweight title this week-end.

"Finney pushed Glass all season," says Walte, who claims most good heavyweights don't get enough work in their workouts. . . . Latest in the Literary Dept.: "Three men on third," a second collection of baseball anecdotes by Ira L. and H. Allen Smith. Some oldies but a lot of laughs. "Baseball techniques" by Ethan Allen, grand instruction for youngsters.

Kentucky Team Ranks Favorite

New York, March 19 (AP)—Kentucky and Oklahoma A. and M., college basketball's potent one-two punch, are strong favorites to wade through divisional playoffs this week and meet for the NCAA championship.

But the road to the title game at Minneapolis March 27 appears much more hazardous for Hank Iba's deliberate Aggies than for the Blue Grass Wildcats, who were No. 1 in the final Associated Press poll.

This Kentucky team which Coach Adolph Rupp compares with his finest productions—and he has had many—is expected to breeze through the eastern eliminations opening tomorrow night at Raleigh, N. C., and New York's Madison Square Garden.

The Aggies, champions of the fast Missouri Valley conference and second ranked nationally, are figured to have far rougher sailing in the western playoffs at Kansas City, beginning Wednesday night.

Two developments during the last few days radically changed the complexion of the tournament at Kansas City:

1. Kansas State, the Big Seven titlist, sounded a warning by overwhelming Illinois, the Big Ten champion, in a warmup game, 91-72.

2. Brigham Young, kingpin of the Skyline Six, impressed the basketball world with an impressive sweep to the National Invitation championship at Madison Square Garden.

MOUNTS LOSE CONSOLATION TOURNEY TILT

Mt. St. Mary's college dropped the consolation game in the National Catholic Invitation tournament at Albany, N. Y., Saturday evening 63-61 to Lemoyne when Jim Hand looped a goal for the winners with seven seconds to go.

Three times in the final moments Lemoyne waived foul shots to set the stage for the winning goal.

Cosgrove, of the Mountaineers, tallied 24 points to bring his tournament total to 126. Janis, co-captain of the losers, shattered the tournament mark for foul shots when he looped six to bring his total to 31.

The defeat gave Coach Pete Caruso's outfit an over-all season mark of 18 wins against 13 losses. The Mounts copped the regular season Mason and Dixon conference title.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Great Conflagration!!! Carlisle, March 13—At about a quarter past 12 o'clock, on Wednesday morning, our citizens were again alarmed by the cry of fire, and we perceived the flames issuing from the stable attached to Scott's Hotel, on an alley immediately back of North Hanover street. The wind at that time was blowing strong and the flames spread with incredible rapidity. The various fire companies were soon upon the spot, but owing to their inefficient organization, and the great difficulty experienced in obtaining a timely supply of water, their efforts to check the progress of the flames were entirely unavailing. The flames spread in an easterly direction, destroying a large number of frame dwelling houses, warehouses, stables, ice-houses, etc., until they extended to the Lutheran church on Bedford street, which was soon enveloped in a dense volume of flame, and every effort made to save this large and beautiful building was without avail. The dwelling house nearly opposite the church was next destroyed and from thence the flames extended to Mrs. Joseph Heiser's large Hotel on East High and Bedford streets. The progress of the devouring element extended to Louthier street and Dickinson alley.

Upon all the property destroyed, we believe there was no insurance except that of Mr. Heiser, upon which there was an amount covering about two-thirds of the loss he sustained which is about $3,000. It is thought that the fire was the work of an incendiary—Volunteer.

Married: On the 13th inst., by the Rev. Mr. Sechler, Mr. Lewis Carbaugh, of this county, to Miss Agnes Menges, of York county.

On the 18th inst., by the Rev. S. Sentman, Mr. John Nunnemaker, Jr., to Miss Isadore A. Riley—both of this county.

Appointment by the Governor: Robert Martin to be Notary Public for the Borough of Gettysburg.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Geo. F. Kalbfleisch, who removed to York, Pa., two years ago, has returned to Gettysburg and has reopened business at his old stand.

Accident: County Superintendent Sheely met with a severe accident on Tuesday morning, the 14th inst., on the Bendersville road, near Ida-ville, by the breaking of a sulky spindle, by which he was thrown violently to the rough frozen ground and dragged some distance before he succeeded in stopping the horse. Though his right knee was severely sprained, besides sustaining a number of other bruises, he hopes to be about again in a few days—Compiler.

Personal: Mr. Alexander Cobean left for Cumberland, Md., on Monday last to keep the books at the Steel works of J. Wilson Paxton.

Squire Felty, of Straban township, whose illness we announced two weeks ago, died on Friday morning and was buried on Sunday. The attendance at it was very large, indicating the high esteem in which he was held. He will be greatly missed in the community, and especially in the Presbyterian church, of which he was for many years a ruling elder, and Superintendent of Sabbath School.

Friday, St. Patrick's day, was true to its tradition. Snow squalls, high winds and sunshine followed each other in rapid succession. It did not impress us as a good day for cabbage seed, but perhaps it was. Saturday and Sunday were very cold, and on Monday there was a snowfall of several inches.

Hon. Joel B. Danner has entirely recovered from his recent illness, and will return to Philadelphia in a few days to resume his duties in connection with the Centennial exposition.

Married: Benchoff-Buhrman.—On the 16th inst., by the Rev. D. Steck, Mr. Wm. H. Benchoff, of Fairfield, Adams county, to Miss Emma A.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON FORTIFYING YOURSELF

All through nature there are individual fortifications, that its life may go on, serve its purpose, and then pass silently into the history of events. Examine the smallest flower, shrub or young tree. Those fortifications are there. Every animal has them, as well.

Man also has his fortifications. Said Epictetus: "Fortify yourself with moderation; for this is an impregnable fortress." Many other things add to this fortification of oneself, such as the will we own, our conscience, our sense of right and wrong, of justice and honor. All of these, and many others, complete the structure of character which is our fortress throughout life.

One of the most inspiring passages in William James's great discourse on "Habit" is this: "Let no youth have any anxiety about the upshot of his education, whatever the line of it may be. If he keeps faithfully busy each hour of the working-day, he may safely leave the result to itself. He can with perfect certainty count on waking up some fine morning to find himself one of the competent ones of his generation."

People shrink from discipline, especially the young, but it is one of the most important things to learn in early life, for it becomes an armor later when emergencies arise that call for courage and prompt decisions. It is elementary in the training of the soldier. And no business organization can well advance without it. Nor can we be without it in our personal lives, no matter what our work in life, for it forms the very walls of our fortress to success.

Dangers forever beset our path as we journey through life, and it is essential that we become forearmed to meet them. The thrifty save for the proverbial rainy day, so that their fear of want may be absent, or greatly lessened when financial dangers arise.

Every organ of the human body is fortified against abuse or the disablement of other organs, so it is well that we learn all we can about the functioning of each by becoming in part, at least, our own physician.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Flocks of Friends."

YARD GOODS

Do the women still buy yard goods as they did in mother's day?

It's been years since I have seen them, bolt and bolt upon display.

Mother had a way to measure without ruler or tape in strips.

A yard was from her nose tip to her outstretched finger tips.

I can't recall statistics for the dresses mother wore.

Or how many yards she needed.

Was it two or three or four?

But was it silk or satin, I was made to understand.

A yard was from her nose tip to her outstretched lovely hand.

I still can see her do it. As a boy I'd sit and stare.

For precisionists in business I am sure she didn't care.

Let them measure to the fraction.

Nose and arm, full length would do.

That was still a yard to mother, though it lacked an inch or two.

What has happened to the counter where the yard goods were displayed.

And the tier of shelves behind it.

With the bolts of every shade?

Time has ended many customs and no longer, I suppose.

A yard is being measured from the fingertips to nose.

44-Year-Old Father Wants To Replace Wounded Son In Korea

Baltimore, March 19 (AP)—The soldier's father sat quietly in his chair. The shadow of sleepless nights clouding his face made him look older than his 44 years.

He didn't want to talk about the letter he said he had written President Truman Monday. He answered questions frankly enough, but you could tell he didn't want to harp on the subject. He hoped the copy of the letter in his hand told the story. And it seemed to.

He — Langdon P. McAninch, Sr., a truck mechanic — was asking the President to let him take the place of his 21-year-old son who was back on the Korean front, 23 days after he had been wounded in the leg.

"Twice As Good"

"If we are so short of men that the wounded don't have time to heal their wounds," the letter said, "send me over. Let me take my son's place. I'm twice as old, so I'll do twice as good a job."

Then it said he was including excerpts from letters written by his son, Pfc. Langdon P. McAninch, Jr., Third Cavalry.

"Dear mom:

"I thought I'd better drop you a line, hoping that it will reach you before the telegram, to let you know that I'm not seriously wounded x x x."

In the same brisk tones of his father, he told of the attack the morning of the 28th of January. His patroling platoon was halfway across a valley "when all hell broke loose x x x Lord! I never ran so fast in all my life x x x."

Shrapnel Rips Knee

"Then it happened. A Chink mortar shell exploded about 15 feet behind me. The Good Lord was with me, that's all I can say. A piece of shrapnel tore into my left knee, and the rest tore into the bank around me x x x."

The young soldier was evacuated back to a hospital in Pusan to recover. Then came this letter:

"Dear Pop:

"I returned to my company last night. Believe me or not, I'm happy to be back. I don't believe I'll be much good. I used to be able to take these hills running, all the way. Now I can't even walk up them. That piece of shrapnel did something to my knee. I can't bend it much anymore x x x."

"I'm Scared"

"Combat's a funny thing. Before I got hit nothing bothered me. Since I've been hit, I'm scared. Everything makes me shake, especially artillery going off."

Then - - -

"2-22-51 — I think

"Dear Pop:

"Today I didn't go up the mountain with my platoon. I just couldn't make it x x x."

"2-25-51

"Dear Mom:

Not A Complainer

"Here I am back up on the mountain with my platoon. As soon as I get back down on level ground, I'm going to start riding the sick book until they do something about my arm x x x."

PEACE IN KOREA HOPEFUL NOW; ALLIES ON TOP

Tokyo, March 19 (AP)—United Nations commanders generally feel that Allied diplomats now have their first important chance since November to win an acceptable peace in Korea.

But in their view it is only a chance. It depends on the possibility—but no concrete evidence—that Peiping and the Kremlin might be ready to quit.

The results of the current offensive have given the Allies a temporary advantage. The Chinese have lost some of their best troops among an estimated 172,000 ground action casualties. U. N. forces have proved they cannot be driven off the peninsula except by greater masses than the Reds have yet used.

Allies Hold Advantage

For the first time since the Chinese struck in late November, rescuing the beaten North Korean army, the Allies hold the advantage.

General MacArthur emphasized Friday, however, that the Communists have "suffered no decisive defeat." They withdrew from Seoul and parallel positions in good order.

The Communists, therefore, would be ready to reach an acceptable peace at this time only if they decided additional blood-letting wasn't worth the effort.

Military men believe this possibility is worth exploring.

May Lose Grip

The Allied advantage may decrease in the next few weeks. These are some of the reasons:

1. Allied forces are operating about as far north as they can, with present strength, and still keep their voracious guns and tanks supplied.
2. The Chinese are apt to be more willing to talk sense in proportion to their losses and less likely during a relatively quiet stalemate.
3. Winter, a U. N. ally, is about over. Communist losses from frost-

Philadelphia, March 19 (AP)—Harry Publicker, 74, chairman of the board of Publicker Industries, Inc., largest producers of industrial alcohol in the world, died Thursday night in his hotel apartment.

A native of the Russian Ukraine, bite and exposure will decrease. No one apparently knows how the Chinese will fight the next stage of the campaign.

Publicker came to this country at the age of six. His father established a cooperage business in South Philadelphia, near the present vast Publicker distilleries on the Delaware river.

CUT THIS OUT AND PASTE ON CARDBOARD FOR REFERENCE

First objective in planning a Liberty garden production schedule is to get a maximum yield out of the space devoted to it. This requires that the land be kept busy all season, and the most efficient vegetables be grown, subject of course to the family preference.

"Efficient vegetables" is a term taken from a report by the University of California on a study of the returns in vitamin and mineral content and calorie value, as related to the garden space and hours of work required to grow various vegetables.

The most efficient vegetables are those of which the roots, stems, leaves, or seed pods are used for food. Right at the top rating are all the greens and salad leaves and broccoli. The least efficient, giving the lowest return in food value for the space they occupy, are reported to be melons, cucumbers, squash, sweet corn, peas and radishes.

Require Little Space

Beans, carrots, beets, parsnips and onions all give heavy yields for small space; while tomatoes are efficient because of their long season, and the fact that when staked they take up little ground space.

The vegetables which require special thought are the ones which give a short harvest. They are also the earliest ones, which may begin to yield in May or June; but which are at their best table quality only a few short weeks.

Many can be enjoyed throughout the summer, if you plan so that one short harvest follows another, and as soon as quality begins to deteriorate in the first sowing, you can begin picking top quality beans, or beets, or sweet corn from the next, until frost interrupts the sequence.

To plan the correct number of sowings, give a few minutes study of the table shown herewith. It lists twelve of the short-harvest crops which home gardens grow.

Other Information

In the table column 1 shows the days it requires a vegetable to reach table size, from seed sown in a garden. Since there are quick and slow growing varieties of most vegetables, look in your seed catalogue to find the exact time required by the varieties you wish to sow.

Column 2 gives the time a crop remains in good condition for the table. Column 3 gives the space in a garden row to produce one serving for a family of four. If beans are to be served twice a week, for example, since one sowing of beans provides a harvest for four weeks, eight feet in the row should produce all the beans the family can use from one sowing. A new crop should be ready every four weeks through the garden season, to keep the table supplied all summer.

Of most crops enough sowings should be made to insure a sixteen weeks' harvest, which will carry you into October.

Wisteria Flowers Within Two Years

Careless distribution of wisteria plants that failed to bloom within a few years after planting has turned many gardeners against this beautiful hardy climber. Those secured from reliable nurserymen can be relied upon to bloom not later than the second year after spring planting and many of them will produce trusses the first year.

Plant wisteria in full sun, if possible, to insure the greatest flower display, and do not let it grow wild. Little pruning will be needed the first few seasons, but after that cut back all long shoots to within two or three eyes at the base of each stub. As the plants gain size, removal of the long straggling shoots is best taken care of right through the growing season to divert all strength to the remaining tissues where it encourages the development of the greatest number of flowering buds.

weekly to 10-day intervals are advised.

CABBAGE ROOT MAGGOT CONTROL

Every summer, too late to avoid losses, many readers write the editor for information about how to control the destructive cabbage root maggot. Here is a garden enemy that is certain to arrive in May. It will likely take a toll of young cabbage plants and perhaps damage early cauliflower and radish plants. And while these crops are seldom attacked later in the season, late turnips may be severely ravaged. Therefore, control measures are offered in advance of the arrival of this invader.

Cabbage root maggots are white legless grubs which hatch from eggs laid in the soil near newly set-out cabbage plants by a small gray fly that resembles the housefly but is slightly smaller. There is no way to wage effective war against the fly except to keep friendly birds numerous around the garden. However, the grub or maggot can be almost completely curbed. Three simple and inexpensive measures are explained below—one preventive in scope, the other two more directly combative.

But before describing these measures it is pertinent to add that any members of the cabbage (crucifer) group of vegetables may be attacked by this pest—cabbage, turnips, radishes, cauliflower, rutabaga, Brussels sprouts, mustard and minor relatives.

The maggot is easy to identify by its work. Plants soon after they are set out or even while they are still

ADVICE GIVEN FOR GOOD LAWN

Everybody wants a good lawn, because there is nothing that will replace it as a setting for the house and its plantings, writes Charles H. Connors in the New York Herald-Tribune. Many persons spend money and effort in attempting to develop good turf, often to no avail. They try to get turf in places where it will not grow well. They use the wrong materials, at the wrong season and try to save money on grass seed.

Even before the frost is completely out of the ground steps can be taken to improve the turf. First, have the soil tested to see whether it needs lime. Liming is necessary only once in three or four years. Liming every year often make conditions more favorable for crabgrass and other weeds. If lime is needed, it can be applied at once. Pulverized limestone can be applied at the same time as fertilizer. If hydrated lime is used, it is better to apply the lime then wait a week or two, depending upon rainfall, before applying fertilizer.

Use Good Fertilizer

Early application of a suitable fertilizer to the established lawn helps to develop good turf. Use a complete commercial plant food, one having an analysis of 5-10-5, 3-12-7, 7-7-7, or thereabouts. These have readily available plant food that the grass can take up at once and begin growing vigorously when the weather warms up. This early vigorous growth is important for a successful lawn.

Apply plant food at the rate of two and a half pounds to 100 square feet. A one pound coffee can, just scant, will hold this amount. Put it on as soon as possible.

in the bed wilt over without any other symptoms. Examination at the base of the stem reveals the grub feeding on or in the stem or main roots.

The simplest prevention expedient is to fit a 3-inch square or circle of tarred building paper around each plant when it is set out. A 4-inch disk or square may be more effective. Cut a slit to the center of the paper and there make two or more short crosscuts so the paper will fit snugly around the stem. Press the paper close to the soil so the fly cannot place her egg beneath it or near the plant.

Gardeners who know how to prepare and handle mercuric chloride (corrosive sublimate) will find this chemical effective against the root maggot. A half-teaspoonful of a 1:1000 solution is poured over the soil around each plant immediately after transplanting and the application repeated 12 days later. This is a deadly poison and must be handled with extreme care. It should be mixed only in earthenware, glass or wooden vessels, never in metal. Unused portions should be buried deep. No dangers are imparted to the crop. To prepare this recommended strength 1 ounce is dissolved in a little hot water and then diluted to 10 gallons with cold or cool water. Two standard (7½-grain) tablets dissolved in one quart of water represent the same strength in a small quantity.

Many gardeners prefer calomel in this role. It is far safer to handle and is just as effective. It is prepared at the same rate—one ounce to ten gallons of water, a half-teaspoonful around each plant soon after transplanting with repeated applications every week until four are made. The calomel solution may be administered around plants still in the bed by use of a long spouted watering can. Or it may be likewise applied along the rows of radishes, turnips or other crucifers likely to be attacked by the root maggot. One caution is stressed in using calomel for this purpose—the solution set- ties quickly, therefore, it must be kept stirred vigorously while being applied.

GROWING GARDEN BEETS

Like cabbage, peas, Brussels sprouts, kale and several other hardy vegetables, beets are not injured by light frosts. Therefore, they may be started as early in March as soils can be worked. But unlike cabbage and other crucifers, beets cannot be easily handled by ordinary transplanting methods from seed flats, coldframes or hotbeds. They do best when seed is planted in the rows where the crop is to grow.

Two facts about soils for beets merit emphasis. First, the soil must be alkaline. If there are any doubts on this point, lime should be worked into the top soil before planting time. Next, beets will not thrive on hard, shallow types of soil. They demand a mellow, deep, well drained loam, neither heavy nor extremely sandy in texture. Commercial fertilizers, while beneficial for beets under favorable soil conditions, will not correct or amend these common defects.

It is usually advisable to turn under deeply a liberal application of well rotted manure for beets. If this is not procurable, thoroughly decomposed compost is recommended, worked uniformly through the lower or rooting stratum. A 4-12-4 fertilizer broadcast and worked into the surface soil before planting time pays big dividends in beet yield and quality. From 2 to 3 pounds per 100 square feet is sufficient. It is not wise to use a fertilizer with a high nitrogen content, represented by the first number in the formula combination. However, the last number, which indicates potash, and the middle number, which designates phosphorus, may be quite high without danger.

Seed should be sown quite thickly to insure a uniform stand of plants, with seedlings later thinned to stand about 3½ to 4 inches apart in the row. If leaves are pinched back on the removed plants and they are transplanted at once, they have a fair chance of survival. Rows may be 16 to 20 inches apart for hand tillage.

It is advisable for home gardeners to make small plantings every three weeks from early March until late summer in order to have a continuous supply of roots reaching edible size from late spring until late fall. Beets are resistant to normal summer temperatures. Such a growing program will bring them to the family table throughout the growing season at the peak of their tender goodness. Of course, the last crop should be planned for canning and burial as well as immediate consumption.

Despite its size and apparent hardness, a beet seed germinates under a considerable handicap, especially during the first few weeks of early spring. The small plants are extremely fragile. Experience proves that sand should be mixed with the thin covering soil to prevent formation of a surface crust to hinder emergence. Or fine vegetative litter or compost may be strewn along the row directly above the seed. Seed should be covered lightly.

Plea beetles may be the only insect enemy to attack beets. They usually appear soon after the first leaves open, gnawing small holes in the foliage. Most species are black or slightly striped. They jump about widely when disturbed. Prompt dusting with rotenone is recommended for control. Where leaf-spot is troublesome, two to four or five applications of Bordeaux mixture at

PARISIANS WALK

Paris, March 19 (AP) — Millions of Parisians walked, bicycled and hitchhiked their way today through the fourth day of transport strike. Six Years' Work
Lost In Flames

Chester, Pa., March 19 (AP) — The time, effort and money a $60-a-week laborer put into a home for his wife and 14 children went up in smoke Thursday.

For six years during his spare time, Nicholas Orlando, 51, built his 10-room two-story house four miles west of here. There was plenty of room for his large family, ranging in age from three to 17 years.

Then Thursday an oil stove exploded in a first floor bedroom. Within 15 minutes the flames engulfed the house.

Mrs. Orlando was the only member of the family at home. A passing rural mail carrier led her to safety.

FINE UNVEILS BUDGET TODAY

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine unveils his 1951-53 state budget today—a budget that may run well over one billion dollars.

A joint session of the General Assembly was called for late afternoon to hear an outline of the Governor's proposed spending program for the next two years.

Fine gave House and Senate Republican leaders a private peek at the budget message last night. They declared afterwards through a spokesman that they were in "full accord" with its provisions.

The spokesman said also that the budget message will confine itself to spending recommendations. No mention will be made of taxes needed to finance the expenditures.

Instead, Fine will deliver a special tax message, probably Wednesday, in which he will outline his financing recommendations, the spokesman stated.

He said this move is intended to give the Governor time for one more conference with his legislative leaders on the question of taxes. It is estimated that at least $120,000,000 in new taxes will be needed in the next two years to meet higher state costs.

Fine said last night after a tax conference that he is leaning toward the imposition of a flat income tax as a means of raising more revenue.

NEW BLIZZARD ROCKS MIDWEST

(By The Associated Press)

The northern midwest was hanging on the ropes again today, virtually knocked out by another smashing blizzard.

From the appearance of many snow-blocked sections and the hardship of its victims, winter is still more like a lusty young arrival than a feeble, dying season.

Throughout the area many highways were blocked, planes were grounded and even some trains were stalled by mountainous snow drifts.

Although the fury of the storm was not as widespread as the two earlier blizzards that already had hit the region this month, it was more intense in spots. In southern Minnesota, southeastern South Dakota and northern Iowa highway traffic was blocked in many places.

Trains stalled in northern Iowa.

The storm left as much as 19 inches of new snow in the area. Winds up to 45 miles an hour whipped it into deep drifts which blocked highways that had been cleared only a few days earlier from the storm of a week ago. Many points reported two feet of old and new snow on the ground.

The storm began Saturday and continued through most of Sunday. It marooned scores of farm families in western Minnesota. Civil air patrol pilots made more than 50 flights yesterday from Wheaton, Minn., to carry provisions to the isolated region and to take two sick farmers and a baby to hospitals.

In northern Iowa the storm caused the tightest traffic tie-up of the winter. About 40 or 50 counties were completely blocked Sunday by deep drifts which stalled an Illinois Central railroad freight train.
